Jesus College, Oxford

Subject Notes: CLASSICS AND MODERN LANGUAGES

Academic Staff

Classics

Professor Armand D'Angour is Fellow and Tutor in Classics, composer of two Olympic Odes in Greek, and author of The Greeks and the New: Novelty in ancient Greek imagination and experience (2011). He is currently investigating how ancient Greek music may have sounded in practice.

Professor Andreas Mogensen is Fellow and Tutor in Philosophy, specialising in moral philosophy and normative ethics, and responsible for arranging teaching and supervision in Philosophy.

Professor Teresa Morgan, Fellow in Ancient History at Oriel College, is the Lecturer at Jesus responsible for arranging teaching and supervision in Ancient History.

Dr Melinda Letts, College Tutor in Latin and Greek Languages, undertakes the language teaching required for students; both reinforcing their A-level classical languages and those starting from scratch.

Modern Languages

Professor Katrin Kohl is a Fellow and Tutor in German. She teaches German literature from 1750. Her research focuses on poetry and poetics, and on the theory and practice of metaphor. Currently she is on research leave, leading an interdisciplinary research project on Creative Multilingualism for the Faculty of Medieval and Modern Languages.

Professor Caroline Warman, Fellow and Tutor in French. She teaches and researches eighteenth- and nineteenth-century French literature and thought, and has translated novels and essays from French. She is on research leave for 2018-19 to finish a book about Diderot's theory of the human. She will be replaced by a Departmental Lecturer in French with a similar specialism and commitment to teaching.

Dr Kirstin Gwyer is a Departmental Lecturer in German at Jesus. She teaches German literature from the eighteenth century to the present, with a special interest in twentieth- and twenty-first-century prose fiction, and translation into and out of German. Her research interests are in the first-generation Holocaust novel, contemporary German-Jewish and American-Jewish literature, German memory writing since 1945, and postmodernism and post-postmodernism.

Dr Elena Lombardi, a Fellow of Balliol College, is a Lecturer in Italian for Jesus College. Her teaching interests focus on Dante, early Italian poetry, and Medieval Studies.

Dr Julie Curtis, a Fellow of Wolfson College, is a Lecturer in Russian for Jesus College. Her research interests lie in twentieth-century Russian literature, especially Mikhail Bulgakov and Evgenii Zamiatin. She has also published on the literature of the Gorbachev era.

Dr Daniela Omlor, Fellow in Spanish at Lincoln College, also looks after Jesus students. Her research focuses on contemporary Spanish literature, with a particular emphasis on memory, trauma and exile. Her first book examined the role of memory and self-representation in the works of Jorge Semprún. Currently, she is exploring the interaction between memory and fiction in recent novels by Javier Cercas, Javier Marías and Antonio Muñoz Molina and others, in order to investigate how the recovery of historical memory in Spanish novels increasingly extends beyond the Spanish Civil War.
About the Course

Classics and Modern Languages enables you to combine study of either one or both of Latin and Ancient Greek with one modern language (French, German, Modern Greek, Italian, Portuguese, Russian, Spanish, Czech, Celtic). NB Beginners' Russian is not available. The course involves extensive study of major literary texts, alongside training in linguistic skills.

There are several options available, which you must choose between at the time of application.

Option 1: First examinations taken in Modern Languages after 3 terms

- Course I = 4 years (3rd year abroad)
- Course II = 5 years (1st year learning Latin or Greek, 4th year abroad)

Option 2: First examinations in Classics after 5 terms

Course I is for students who have prior knowledge of the Classical language to A2 level; Course II is for those without such knowledge. Oxford has the largest Classics department in the world, with unparalleled teaching, library and museum resources and a range of extracurricular activities, including performances of Greek plays and various societies. The Modern Languages Faculty is one of the largest in the UK, with a major research library (the Taylorian) and a modern, well-equipped Language Centre fitted with satellite and computer-assisted language learning facilities. Undergraduates will also have the opportunity to develop oral proficiency in the modern language by regular contact with native speakers. Students take a year abroad in a foreign country before their final year. Most undergraduates spend their year abroad as a paid language assistant in a foreign school. Colleges assist in arranging these placements, and colleges or the Modern Languages Faculty may also provide financial support. College support may also be available to help undergraduates with academic-related travel to Italy or Greece.

Your time is divided between lectures, language classes, tutorials and private study. Most of your work will be in preparation of essays for your tutorials, although the systematic reading of literary texts, not necessarily aimed at any particular tutorial, also requires a considerable input of time and effort.

Admissions

Candidates are selected on the basis of academic record (e.g. GCSEs) and potential, as shown by their UCAS reference, submitted written work, performance in written tests and in interviews if shortlisted. In a total College entry of about 100 undergraduates, 4 or 5 are offered places in a typical year to read Classics and joint schools. Candidates will be expected to achieve three A grades at A2 level, including grade A in the Modern and/or Classical Language(s) to be taken at degree level if currently studied. Applications from students taking equivalent examinations such as the International Baccalaureate are welcome. Offers made to post-A Level candidates will usually be unconditional. Applicants studying both classical languages to A-Level, or only one, are equally welcome, as are those who may have only studied to GCSE level (who follow the Course II option).

Written tests: Candidates must take the Classics Admissions Test (CAT) and the Modern Languages Admissions Test (MLAT) on Wednesday 31 October 2018. These tests are administered by Cambridge Assessment Admissions Testing and separate registration is required for each of these two tests by 15 October 2018.

All candidates will also be required to sit a short written test (30 minutes) in the relevant Modern Language. This test aims to assess your grasp of the grammar of the language you intend to study. It is not a test of vocabulary. For more information, please see:

https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-to-oxford/tests
N.B. Candidates for Course I, i.e. studying Latin and/or Greek to A-Level or equivalent, will be expected to sit A-level standard test(s) in Latin and/or Greek. Candidates for Course II, i.e. who are not studying Latin and/or Greek to A-Level or equivalent, will sit the Classics Language Aptitude Test.

Written work: In Classics, candidates submit two essays or commentaries. For Modern Languages, two pieces of written work should be submitted, at least one of which should be written in the language you are applying to study (if currently studied). The submitted work should be marked by a teacher as part of your studies at school or college. The deadline to submit written work is 10 November 2018.

Deferred Entry: Applications for deferred entry to Jesus College are welcomed. You must apply for deferred entry at the time of application to Oxford: you cannot change your mind after an offer has been made. Please refer to departmental web sites for subject-specific advice. You should be aware that applicants who are offered places for deferred entry will generally be among the strongest of the cohort for their subject. We would not usually offer more than one or two deferred places per subject in order not to disadvantage the following year’s candidates. In some cases, an applicant for deferred entry may be offered a place for non-deferred entry instead. If you require any further advice, please contact the Admissions Officer via admissions.officer@jesus.ox.ac.uk

Postgraduate Studies and Careers

In Oxford there is a larger concentration of teachers of classical subjects, and of graduate students, than anywhere else in the world. The following degrees are offered at postgraduate level:

- MSt (1 year) or MPhil (2 years) Greek and/or Latin Language and Literature
- MSt or MPhil Greek and/or Roman History
- DPhil Classics

Oxford has a large, varied, and active teaching and research community in Modern Languages. There are over ninety members of the Faculty, with research interests spread across the full chronological range of the languages and into most areas of linguistics and literary study. The College welcomes applicants for all postgraduate degrees in Medieval and Modern Languages.

The following degrees are available:

- MSt or MPhil Modern Languages
- DPhil Medieval and Modern Languages
- MSt or MPhil Slavonic Studies
- MSt Women’s Studies
- MSt Yiddish Studies

Graduates in Classics and Modern Languages go on to a wide variety of careers, including the media, teaching, acting, management, advertising and librarianship, as well as working with international companies or organisations. Recent Classics and Modern Languages graduates include an investment manager and a trainee solicitor.

Preliminary Reading and Further Information

Further information about Classics and Modern Languages at Oxford can be found on the faculty websites at:

- www.classics.ox.ac.uk
- www.mod-langs.ox.ac.uk
Information about Admissions is available at http://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/courses-listing/classics-and-modern-languages

Contact details

If you have any questions about our entrance requirements, or about applying to study at Jesus College, please contact the Admissions Officer:

Tel: 01865 279721
Email: admissions.officer@jesus.ox.ac.uk
Web: www.jesus.ox.ac.uk/study-here

Last updated: May 2018