Ernest Ivor Clarry (1919-2016) came up to Jesus College in 1938 to read Classics. He left in 1939 on war service, but returned in January 1946 to complete his course, passing his Finals in December 1947. He then remained at Jesus to study for a Dip. Ed. He became a schoolmaster, latterly becoming Senior Classics master and a housemaster at Exeter School. He retired in 1979.

These pieces of ephemera were given to the College by his executors, Mr. and Mrs. John Jago, in March 2017 as Accession No. 408. They show that he retained a lifelong interest in his old College, and in particular a lifelong friendship with his former tutor John Griffith (F. 1938-80), with whom several items in this collection are concerned.

Catalogued in March 2017.

JC:P116/X1/1-2 18 Feb 1966 & 10 Feb 1967
Two menus for “O. E. Dinners” held in Oxford and attended by Clarry. These must be dinners held for Old Members of Exeter School who were now at Oxford.

JC:P116/X1/3 1971
Copy of the final report of the Appeal Committee for the Quatercentenary of Jesus College.

JC:P116/X1/4-6 June 1971
Ephemera relating to the celebrations of the Quatercentenary of Jesus College, comprising an overall programme of events, an order of service for a special Evensong, and a programme for A Jesus College Miscellany, written and directed by Douglas Cleverdon (matr. 1922).

JC:P116/X1/7 6 June 1974
Programme for Musarum Restitutio, an evening’s entertainment arranged in the Sheldonian Theatre to mark the installation of fibreglass replicas of two statues of the Muses on top of the Clarendon Building. The programme included music and an “Interludibrium”, which included a newly composed Latin poem by John Griffith as Public Orator.

JC:P116/X1/8 June 1980
A reprint of John Griffith’s poem written for Musarum Restitituo (see above), prepared by Griffith himself, with a selection of some of his speeches delivered for honorary degrees.

JC:P116/X1/9 n.d. (c. 1976-9)
Programme for a production by the Oxford University Classical Drama Society of Euripides’ The Bacchae (in Greek) and Aristophanes’s The Frogs (in a translation by David Barrett. The programme is undated, nor is the venue given, but a few members of the cast came from Jesus College, and matriculated in 1976, so the production must date from the late 1970s.
Cutting from an unknown newspaper showing Stephen Hawking (awarded an honorary degree on 3 June 1978) with various people around him, including John Griffith, as Public Orator.

List of attendees at a Jesus College Gaudy, with years of matriculation given.

Order of service for memorial service for Cynthia Griffith (former Tutorial Secretary and wife of John Griffith), held in Jesus College Chapel.
